Biography: Mr. Waymire joined Booz Allen Hamilton in November 1999. Mr. Waymire supports the Defense Systems Team through provision of biometric solutions efforts through the Automated Identification Technology team. In addition to providing program management and subject matter expertise to a variety of clients, Mr. Waymire is also responsible for the establishment and operation of the Defense Team's Biometrics Demonstration Laboratory. Through this evaluation and demonstration Laboratory, product testing and evaluation have been conducted for the U.S. Air Force, U.S. Navy and Washington based classified clients.

Mr. Waymire currently serves as the Booz Allen Task Lead to the DoD Biometrics Management Office (BMO). In this role, Mr. Waymire manages the delivery of the Booz Allen support that includes Policy Development, Advanced Technology Analysis and Support (to include Standards Development), and Budget Analysis.

Mr. Waymire also serves as the Task Lead to the Department of the Navy Representative for the Department of Defense Biometrics Management Office (DoD BMO). In this role he assists in the strategic development and planning of the Navy biometrics program, to include policy, standards and requirements development. He is responsible for the first shipboard implementation and Quick Look of Biometrics onboard the USS Coronado. Additionally, he is responsible for the coordination, product selection, and installation of biometric pilot efforts at the Headquarters, U.S. Marine Corps (C4I), the Joint Warfare Analysis Center, and Sub Base San Diego Pier Access demonstrations. Currently, he is at the head of a design and development effort to integrate biometrics technology into the Navy Enterprise Single Sign On.

Mr. Waymire is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy. Mr. Waymire received a B.S. in Political Science.
