Delores M. Etter, Ph.D.

ONR Distinguished Chair in
Science and Technology
Electrical Engineering Department
US Naval Academy

Dr. Delores M. Etter was born in Denver and earned a B.S. and M.S. degrees in mathematics from Wright State University. In 1979 she received a Ph.D. in electrical engineering from the University of New Mexico. Her research interests are in adaptive signal processing, speech and speaker recognition, digital filter design, and software engineering. Her educational interests include the development of collaborative experiments in virtual teaming of students using the Internet.

In 1979, Dr. Etter joined the faculty of the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering at the University of New Mexico and served as associate vice president for academic affairs in 1989. During the 1983-1984 academic year, she was a National Science Foundation Visiting Professor in the Information Systems Laboratory in the Electrical Engineering Department at Stanford University. From 1990 to 1998, Dr. Etter was a professor of electrical and computer engineering at the University of Colorado, Boulder.

Dr. Etter is a member of the Defense Science Board and the Board of Visitors for the National Defense University. She has received the Department of the Navy Distinguished Public Service Award, the Secretary of Defense Outstanding Public Service Medal, and the Department of Defense Distinguished Public Service Medal. In 1998 she received the IEEE Harriet B. Rigas Award. In 2000 she received the Federal Women in Science and Engineering Lifetime Achievement Award. In 2003, Dr. Etter was named to the National Science Board.
